Overview

Established in May 1986, Richard Bloch Architect (RBA) is a full-service design and consulting firm of associated architects, interior designers and kitchen equipment designers specializing in the food & beverage and hospitality industries. Serving as a single comprehensive design resource, RBA offers a full spectrum of services, including planning; feasibility and concept studies; front-of-house and back-of-house design; lighting design; graphics consultation; furniture design; construction documents; construction administration; and post-opening analysis and review. The firm provides wide-ranging, integrated solutions, including the management of all of the design disciplines required to complete a project. RBA has been involved in more than 200 commissions, responsible for the design of more than $100 million of new and renovated projects in locations throughout the U.S. and Japan. The firm's work has included a wide variety of projects in venues including airports, hotels, malls, office buildings, freestanding, museums and stadiums. In addition to its F&B/hospitality specialty, Richard Bloch Architect also has experience in contract interiors, commercial interiors and residential work.
